

AUBURN
UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF
VETERINARY MEDICINE

Dear [name field]:

Meet Dr. Christine Garrett. She's just starting her career at a small animal practice in Franklin, Tennessee, using the skills, knowledge, and confidence she gained at Auburn's College of Veterinary Medicine. I am proud to welcome Dr. Garrett and 118 other new veterinarians into the Auburn Veterinary Family. Your gift to the college will ensure other students have an educational experience like Christine's and are equally prepared for productive and impactful careers in veterinary medicine.

Your commitment provides the tools we need to train the world's next generation of veterinarians, make medical breakthroughs through innovative research, provide exceptional care for our patients, and improve the lives of people. These tools include:

- Merit-based and need-based scholarships and fellowships
- Endowed professorships to recruit and retain outstanding faculty
- New and reimagined academic facilities

These important priorities also include overall support for our major initiatives, like a comprehensive cancer center and an equine sports medicine complex. These initiatives build on existing strengths and expand the impact of Auburn's College of Veterinary Medicine on animals, people, and society. Although the challenges are great, Auburn is intent on being recognized as a national leader in these areas. With your help, we will succeed.

What we can achieve is only possible with the entire Auburn Family working together. Can we count on you, as a member of the Auburn Family, to help Auburn achieve its greatest potential? Please join me in saying "Yes!" by giving to the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Thank you,

Calvin Johnson '86

Class of 2017

About me:

I'm originally from Albertville, Ala., and I am on a new adventure in Franklin, Tenn. with my husband (Jeff Haney, CVM '17) two dogs (Lady and Sophie) and a cat (Oakley). I cannot wait to take what I have learned at Auburn to our new home.

Why I chose the College of Veterinary Medicine:

When applying to veterinary schools, I looked around the country for programs with excellent reputations that provided a diverse educational experience while encouraging engagement and research. Auburn's College of Veterinary Medicine was the perfect fit and more.

Why giving to the College of Veterinary Medicine is important:

The college has provided the building blocks for the foundation on which I will build a lifelong career. It is an honor to have the opportunity to give back so that future clients, patients, and students with a similar dream may also experience what we call the Auburn Family.

THANK YOU!
