Say hello to a few of our newest medical students. "You'll never doubt that your work matters," Dean Lloyd Minor told them during yesterday's white coat and stethoscope ceremony." You'll wake up every day knowing that people depend on you for their lives and well-being... You'll discover just how much you're capable of doing, learning, and becoming." Earlier this fall, a group of #Stanford medical students stopped shaving and started raising money for La Casa De Las Madres, a Bay Area organization that offers shelter, support, and advocacy services for people affected by domestic violence. The No Shave fundraiser, which was organized by the Stanford Health Justice Coalition, was a hit - raising more than $1,000 for the organization. A few days ago, some of the participants (alongside Santa) showed off their freshly trimmed beards. #StanfordMedicine...
